This class is the security token used vendor, Authentication and Serializer classes for information about security token to and from WCF security infrastructure.. An RSA token is a small hardware device (called hardware token or keyfob) or a mobile app (called software token) that logs on a two-factor authentication system a method where the user has two means for identification.. Both the actual security token instance and SecurityTokenReferenceStyle that specify the type of requested reference are sent as an argument for this method..
